

SOCIETY

THANKSGIVING week in Honolulu is never a gay week socially. The least of the year of the family dinner occupy all attention. It is the one occasion in the year when those around the festive board usually consist of home folk entirely.

The week included the baseball game between the visiting congressmen and our local law makers. It was quite a social event and was witnessed by a coterie of coming society buns who passed baskets for a silver offering to the Red Cross.

The reception at the Japanese consulate on Monday was quite the largest social function of the week, and it was, as have been all such affairs at this consulate, charming in every detail. The smart afternoon frocks of the women, the glittering uniforms of the officers and the beautiful costumes of the women of Japan made a colorful setting.

Football games on Thanksgiving Day took a large number of folks to see the national college game.

All of the churches held Thanksgiving services and all were well attended.

And now comes the first of the Christmas month, when shopping will hold full sway. The Christmas boxes for England and France are already on their way; those for China, Japan, Philippines and Australia must be sent during the first ten days of December, when they will not be at their destination to open on the holy day, and we will know how much nicer it is to have our boxes arrive on that date.

Now a word to milady about her shopping. Shop now! Do not wait until the week before December 25. All the realists that give this year will be many cases be eliminated, for many feel their money should be used for either Red Cross or other worthy work, but the children and the poor will have their good cheer from their friends as usual. So shop early, take a couple of hours and sift everything down to a working basis. Have your lists so segregated that the work of purchasing may be so done that milady as well as her hard-working sister, the shop girl, will be saved the weariness of overburdened days and nights. When shopping is left for the last moment the purchases become nervous and irritated, it is not until after the fact that the girl is irritated and justly so, with a sense for not attending to the business of purchasing sooner. Each one has some cross and wishing that the other might have a better disposition. The fault lies almost exclusively with the purchaser. Of course there are exceptional cases and the rule does not in every case apply, but try early shopping and revel later in the night with women flying in and out of shops, buying lists and samples, declaring they "had the sample but a moment ago" and then the wild and fruitless search, and so, when madam arrives home tired and ready to weep, there the little sample surely pinned to the pin-board!

Many women are now using their time and energy to do needlework that they are selling to give the money to the Red Cross. One society matron has made twenty of the most useful and attractive knitted bags, and these are to be sold and the money used in Red Cross work. The workshop at Red Cross headquarters is as busy as a hive. The fact that Christmas is near has spurred the workers to greater effort for the need is pressing and so is this. Knitting on the way to and from the workshop is a regular order and the women who attend any social function with their knitting is sometimes classed as a slacker.

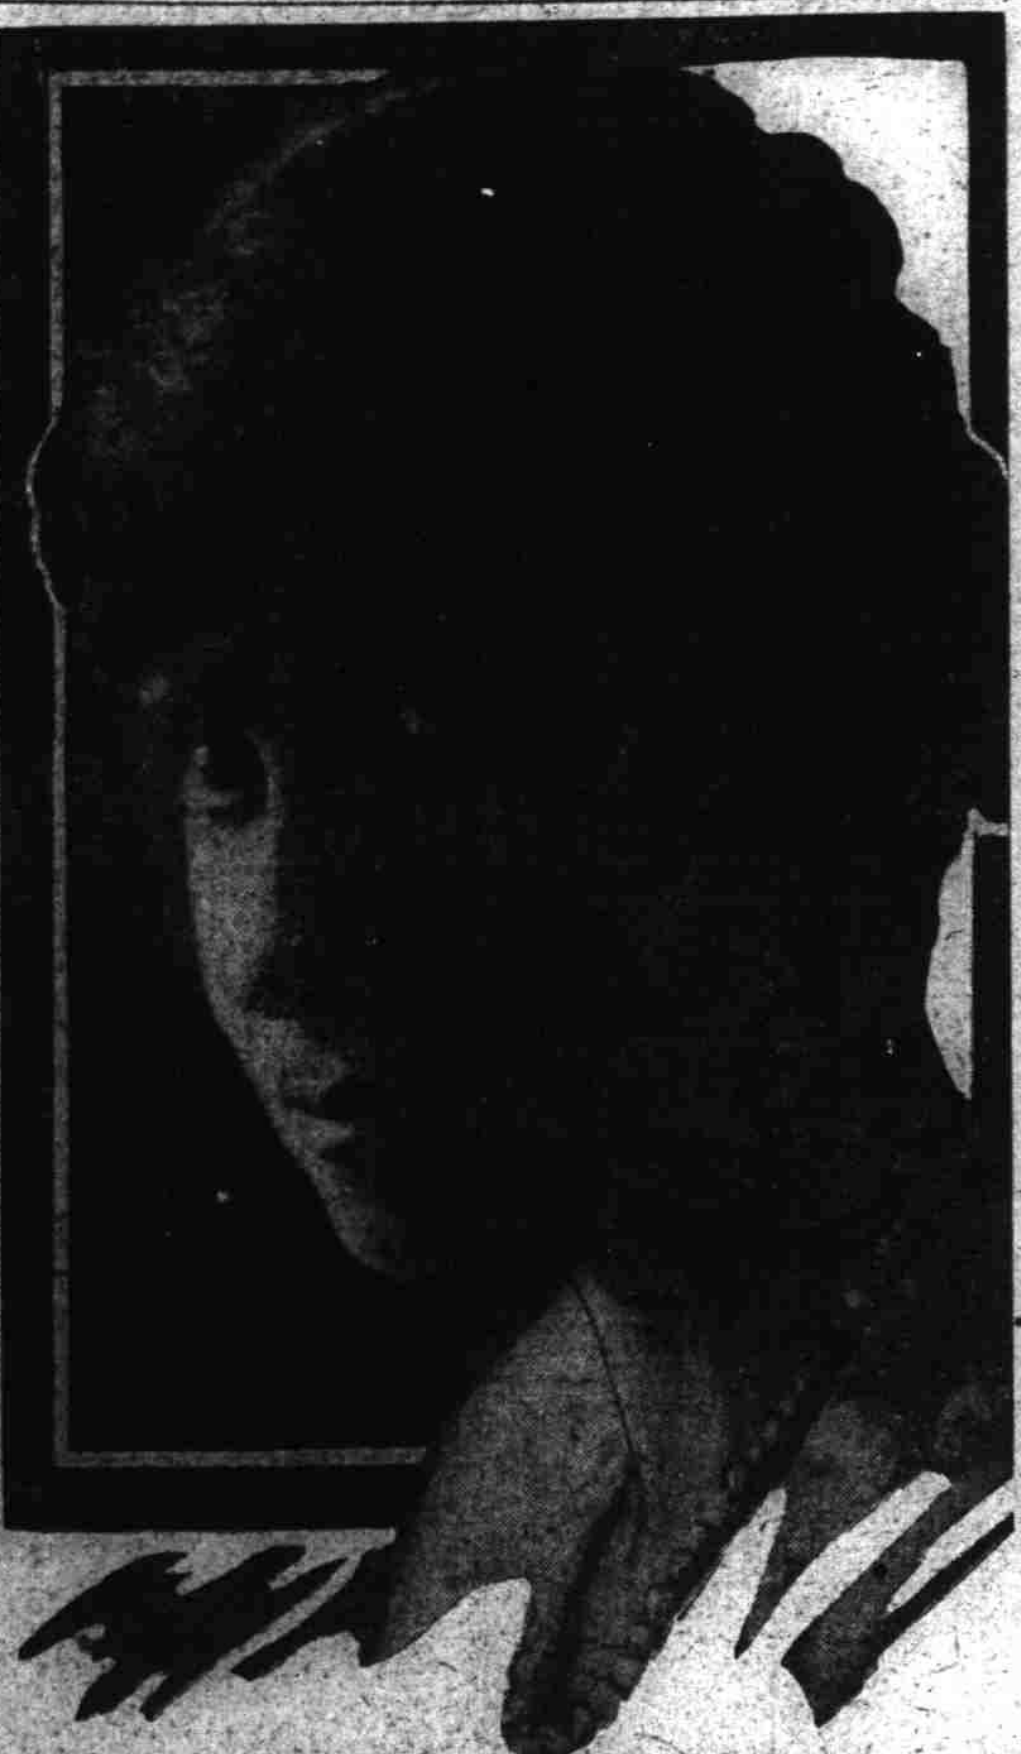

Children can learn to knit. Many are doing creditable work for our soldiers who are aching to get to the front and for those who are already home. In sunny, warm and comfortable Hawaii we cannot conceive the awful cold of winter. The soldier with a sweater, muffler, helmet and warm socks stands a far better chance than the lad who is not so well equipped. So, women and girls in Hawaii, keep knitting until weary and then start in again, for your knitting is needed.

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MEET
The members of Aloha Chapter, holding daughters and guests gathered at the home of Miss Anne Hunshee, "Hushee Court," November 28. It was indeed a happy occasion. The renewed interest of the members, the new names added to the roll and the hearty cooperation and the good being accomplished all reflect the untiring efforts of the regent.

The show exhibit arranged by the assistant hostess, Mrs. C. Andrews, brought to light the treasures of the grandmothers of olden days.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Miss Elizabeth Hobbs gave two choice readings in her perfect manner, and Mrs. S. H. Douglas read Mrs. N. L. Scott's excellent paper on "Thanksgiving Days."

It told in brief how in all times

Mrs. Hamilton E. Ages, who wrote the playlet, "About Women," that "The Footlights," Honolulu's amateur dramatic organization, will produce this month.

Thanksgiving days follow days of great hardship. After our Puritan forefathers struggled for freedom they could yet look up through all their tears and raise their voices in praise. And, too, may the gloom cast over the world today, work out some blessing!

The social hour closed an interesting meeting, yet the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution met again on November 28 at Sans Souci, Waikiki, when they entertained with a chorale for a group of the enlisted men.

That ideal spot, where Robert Louis Stevenson lived for a time, together with the pier gave added charm to the swim and dance, and at sunset the supper was served on the lawn. Cheerfulness and smiles made everyone glad to have shared the pleasure.

A WEDDING ANNIVERSARY DINNER DANCE.
Mr. and Mrs. Ray M. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips gave a very charming dinner dance on Wednesday evening at the Country Club in celebration of their third wedding anniversary. The table was exquisitely beautiful with a large basket filled with golden cornucopias and brown field flowers and lace ferns. The table basket handle was ornamented with a huge butterfly bow in yellow and brown. Festoons of flowers were daintily on the table. Attractive name cards of kewpie brides and grooms marked each guest place. Dancing afterwards was a pleasant finish to a delightful day. The guests enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heister, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Gold, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Johnson. The guests included only intimate and mutual friends of both hosts and hostesses.

THE FOOTLIGHTS' COMING PLAY.
The Footlights, Honolulu's amateur dramatic organization, is to put on three plays on the evenings of December 14 and 15, at the Lania Theatre. The plays are to be "Fugentially Speaking," "About Women," by Fanny Henslip Lee (Mrs. E. P. Ages), and "The Twelve Pound Look," by J. M. Barrie.

Mrs. Ages' play has been accepted by the Washington players, but this is the first time it will be presented. "The Footlights" is an organization that is five years old, and the aim has been to put on a high standard of plays, something that will be not only

YOST-KNOWLES ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle G. Bartlett of Kamehameha Schools announce the engagement of Miss Gertrude M. Knowles, sister of Mrs. Bartlett, to Lieut. Harold H. Yost, U. S. R.

Miss Knowles is director of music at Kamehameha School for Girls, and will leave that position early this month to go to Berkeley for the wedding.

Lieut. Yost is well known in Honolulu, having been manager of the Mills School farm for the two years previous to this. This summer he left Honolulu to become director of the California experimental station at El Centro in Imperial Valley. He had applied for a commission in the officers' training corps before leaving Honolulu and recently was called to active service and assigned to command of troops at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Washington.

The officer is a Berkeley graduate. He had military training at the university and was captain of cadets at the time of graduation. In Honolulu he was a member of the Coast Artillery Company of the National Guard.

Miss Knowles has been in Honolulu for two and one-half years, during which time she has been in charge of music at Kamehameha School for Girls. She is a former Concord, Massachusetts, girl. Her musical work was taken at New England Conservatory of Music from which she was graduated in 1915.

The wedding will be in All Souls Chapel at Berkeley soon after Miss Knowles' arrival on the mainland.

BETTIN-KENNARD WEDDING

Lieut. George T. Bettin, recently commissioned from the reserve corps training camp at Schofield Barracks, and Miss Helen Kennard of California, were married on Wednesday evening at the home of Pres. and Mrs. Robert Day Williams of Mid-Pacific Institute, Manoa. Dr. J. H. Williams, acting minister of Central Union church, officiated.

The wedding was the culmination of a pretty romance that began more than a year ago when the bride was a teacher at Kawaiahao seminary and the bridegroom at Mills school. After the school year Miss Kennard returned to California to prepare for the wedding. Mr. Bettin spent the summer in the Hawaiian Pineapple factory, and at the opening of the reserve training camp was admitted as a candidate. His commission as first lieutenant was announced early this week.

Robert Stone, a teacher at Mills school, and Mrs. Robert Day Williams were the witnesses to the wedding ceremony. Following the wedding a reception was held, during which Ellen Beach Yaw, now visiting Honolulu, sang delightful numbers. Music was also furnished by the Kawaiahao Glee Club.

Lieut. Bettin has been attached to the 1st Infantry, Schofield Barracks, where the young couple will make their present home.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

During her sojourn in Los Gatos, Mrs. Schultze's hospitality and enthusiasm, her generous gift of song and her genius for friendship has endeared her to many. Now that she has left us to make her home in Honolulu, nowhere will her absence be more keenly felt than in the choir of the Presbyterian church, where she rendered such faithful and excellent service. As an expression of appreciation and of regret at her going, a farewell reception was given in her honor in the church parlors on the evening of October 30, by Miss Emily Baker, choirster and organist of the church. It took the form of a Halloween surprise party; and may all such farewells be as merry! Weirily-colored lights; a room full of witches, black cats and red devils—on paper; portions of rustic viands; queer pumpkins full of Halloween table favors and golden pumpkin in all the glory of play; good games, eats and jokes—and the best joke of all was the coming in of refreshments ordered by Mrs. Schultze, who had herself carefully planned to surprise the guest of honor; but the names of her Los Gatos friends, who arrived on the train, were in memory she will prize most as the keepsake of her sojourn in California. —Los Gatos, Cal., News.

MRS. SARA ANGUS' THANKSGIVING DINNER

Mrs. Sara Angus was hostess at a family dinner on Thanksgiving evening. Covers were laid for ten guests.

MRS. FRED KOHL SAILS FOR FRANCE

SAN FRANCISCO.—Even her best friends out here are wondering how "Bessie" Kohl will adjust herself to actual war service, on which mission she has sailed for France. Mrs. Fred Kohl has always been one of the most perfectly groomed women in these parts, and of course lived in the middle of a life of comfort completely surrounded by luxuries.

Ever since she and Fred Kohl came to the parting of their ways, for part of them are, even though their affairs did not get into the divorce courts, she has been trying to get over to Europe to do hospital work. It's always done in such crisis by heroines in the best fiction, and in real life it is sometimes done mightily well!

There is no more reason why "Bessie" Kohl should not make good at it than many another whose purpose has hardened in spite of the soft life and whose achievement has been in inverse ratio to her previous training.

Mrs. Felton Elkins, who sailed with Mrs. Kohl, is likewise going to France to do hospital work. She is practically financing the hospital unit to which she goes, so of course there is no question about a place being made for her in the service.

Mrs. Kohl is well known in Honolulu.

ORGAN RECITAL

The very pleasant organ recitals of the Christian church winter series will be continued next Thursday evening. Miss Alice Harrison, organist at Central Union, is giving the series, which next Thursday will take the form of modern musical compositions.

Miss Harrison has done much recital work since coming to Honolulu and her work is well enough known to need no special mention here. Everyone interested in organ music will want to hear her on Thursday evening.

The series was opened on October 2 by Mrs. Earle G. Bartlett, organist of Christian church.

The second program was given by Lieutenant W. T. Taber, former organist of the First Congregational church of Washington, D. C., on November 3.

The fourth recital in this series will be given by A. B. Ingalls at a date soon after Christmas.

These recitals are free to all interested in organ music. There is plenty of room on the large lanais surrounding the main auditorium on three sides where those who can not find seats inside may be easily accommodated.

The program, which begins at 8 o'clock, is as follows:

- "Grand Chorus," William R. Spence; "Nocturne in D," William Fankles; "Two Transcriptions," (a) "Meditation," "Thais," Massenet; (b) "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water," Cadman; "Hymn to the Setting Sun," Lacey; "Berceuse," Clarence Eddy; "Scherzo Symphonique," Fankles; "Song of Joy," Roland Diggle; "Evansong," Ed. F. Johnston; "At Sunset," Gatty Sellers; "At Twilight," J. Frank Frysinger; "Festal Postlude," Oscar Schmitke.

TO RECEIVE NEW PASTOR

Dr. Albert Palmer, the new pastor of Central Union church, with Mrs. Palmer and their three children, sailed from San Francisco Wednesday for Honolulu and it is expected that there will be a large number of church people present at the boat next Tuesday when the party arrives. On the evening of Thursday, December 13, the Women's society will tender a reception to Dr. and Mrs. Palmer in the church parlors when it is expected that all of the church and congregation will be present to greet the new pastor and his wife. Mrs. Edwin Benner, president of the society, and Mrs. J. L. Young, chairman of the social committee, are arranging the affair. The decorations will be in charge of Miss Elmore Sturgeon, Mrs. A. Lewis, Jr., will arrange the program, while Mrs. Frank Midkiff will be in charge of a berry of pretty girls who will serve fruit punch and coffee.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES CHILLINGWORTH'S FAMILY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chillingworth entertained on Thanksgiving evening for their immediate family. Covers were placed for eight guests.
